

Weather forecast at Paris-CDG on 17/01 - Information teleconference

The updated weather forecast indicates episodes of rain and snow mixed, possibly turning into snow on Wednesday, January 17. Considering the de-icing capabilities of the platform and the expected traffic, the operational impacts currently anticipated do not seem to justify a reduction in flight schedules at Paris-CDG for the 17th.

However, significant delays during peak departure times (morning and evening) are likely.

Attention should also be paid to access conditions to the platform, which may be more challenging than usual due to the weather.

The teleconference scheduled for 19:30 today is cancelled.

For Thursday, January 18, the situation will be reassessed tomorrow, and a new teleconference will be held at 19:30 CET (18:30 UTC) (same link below).
